

LEARNING TO CRAWL

The newest kid-and-baby gear keeps urban tots styling. By JILLIAN KURVERS

ZOOM ZOOM

Geet 35 may be years away, but there's no time like the present to get your toddler's engine revving. This red-hot Vespa scooter is perfect for prowling around Crissy Field or cruising across carpet, hardwood and tile. But watch out, parents—this three-wheeler's working horn will sound at any postcard $90, available at Ambassador Toys, 2 Embarcadero Center, 415-345-7075.

GREEN SLEEVES

San Francisco's Rock n Roll Babies is a line of organic, eco-friendly children's clothing that will have your tot looking cool in hipster-inspired prints and you looking smart—especially when you send back the outgrown outfits to the company's recycling program for donation to local shelters. $24; rocknrollbabies.com

STICKY SITUATION

Colorful and creative Murelle wall decals transform your child's room into a picture-perfect fantasyland.

GREEN SLEEVES
San Francisco's Rock n Roll Babies is a line of organic, eco-friendly children's clothing that will have your tot looking cool in hipster-inspired prints and you looking smart—especially when you send back the outgrown outfits to the company's recycling program for donation to local shelters. $24; rocknrollbabies.com

Eric's sock-wearing sneakers, wipey and baby gear hidden but handy. $60; available at Sprout, 1820 Union St., 415-359-8200 like will look on-forward as by San Francisco's Colette Kids. Don't just stack kids' coats with these cute and cuddly fauna-themed prints—make it a family affair with their newly revised Mom & Dad line. $22-$24; colettekids.com